Notes on Reading this Chart:

I've created this chart for my own personal reference, and as a teaching tool. All variantions are described in reference to the King James Version. This is not to imply that the reading of the KJV is superior to the others, but only to make comparison easier. Please understand that there are many, many variations among the translations. For this chart, I've chosen only a few verses for Comparison, to show the preferences of the translators and the variation between the different manuscripts of the Old and New Testaments.

The translations I chose to compare are by no means an exhaustive list. I chose a sampling of old English translations that are freely available, as well as some of the most popular recent translations that people are reading today. For brevity, have omitted many mid-20th century which have been replaced by newer versions, such as the RSV and many older variants of the NIV.

On the inclusion of the Douay-Rheims: This purpose of this chart is not to show the differences between the Latin text and the texts generally accepted by protestant Christians—that would be a study for another time. However, I have included the DR in this comparison to show how the Latin text renders the selected verses in this comparison. Many people claim that the modern translations follow the "Latin Vulgate," but it can be seen from this chart that, in fact, the Vulgate and the TR agree in many places where both vary from the critical text.

I hope and pray you find this chart useful. If you have corrections or suggestions, please email me: fiforms@gmail.com.
